“Chains” - words and music by Eleanor Guy, Produced and Mixed by Thomas Ryder Payne
Orestes is staged by arrangement with Pam Winter, GGA, www.ggagency.ca.

Tarragon Theatre is an active member of the Professional Association of Canadian Theatres (PACT), the Toronto Alliance for the Performing Arts (TAPA), and engages professional artists who are members of Canadian Actors' Equity Association under the terms of the Canadian Theatre Agreement.

The performance of Orestes is powered by LIVELAB.

I demand so much of my screen. Sex, news, love, conversation, shopping. I'm addicted to my phone. And through the attention I lavish on it, a new someone emerges online, at least as real as the embodied me. Me and not me. A kind of ghost that shadows me, demands things of me, even on the bus or in the grocery store. I/not I takes form in the still-forming space of online, a space of whispers and shouts, intimate and vast at the same time. A spiritual space.

In the original Orestes, there is a presence that stalks the shadows and emerges as Apollo at the end. Some demonic, god-like hybrid. I feel the same way about the internet. The perfect place for Greek tragedy.

The rules kept changing as we put this together. I am so grateful that I got to gather (virtually) with the talented people who made this show. Working without any sort of net. None of us knew what we were saying "yes" to. When COVID took our spaces away, we made a space in here.

Rick Roberts - Jan 2021

Tarragon Theatre acknowledges the land it calls home is the traditional territory of many nations including the Mississaugas of the Credit, the Anishnabeg, the Chippewa, the Haudenosaunee and the Wendat peoples and is now home to many diverse First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples.

We are grateful to work in this meeting place of Toronto as part of this community, on this territory.

He played Ezra Pound in the 2001 Stratford Festival production of The Trials of Ezra Pound by Timothy Findley. He played Calum MacDonald in No Great Mischief by David S. Young in 2004 and 2012. In 2015, he played King Lear in a production by North Bay's Watershed Shakespeare Collective at Theatre Passe Muraille.

Other: I thought I was in retirement 2 years ago, had decided I'd had my run; then, out of nowhere, Richard Rose offered me the opportunity to be part of this incredible project: Rick Roberts' ORESTES. I could not turn it down, especially in this Covid era-live-to-camera performance. Me, who can rarely get my cell phone to work! It is a huge and fascinating experience.

Ian Garrett (Toasterlab) - Web Interface

Ian Garrett is designer, producer, educator, and researcher in the field of sustainability in arts and culture. He is the director of the Centre for Sustainable Practice in the Arts; Associate Professor of Ecological Design for Performance at York University; and Producer for Toasterlab. He maintains a design practice focused on ecology, technology and scenography. Through Toasterlab's Mixed Reality Performance Atelier, recent work includes The Stranger 2.0 with DLT Experience; Groundworks with Rulan Tangen and collaborating artists from Pomo, Wappo, and Ohlone communities; The locative audio project TrailOff with Philadelphia's Swim Pony; and Transmission (FuturePlay/Edinburgh and Future of Storytelling Festival/New York). With Chantal Bilodeau, he co-directs the biannual Climate Change Theatre Action, currently in its fourth cycle commissioning new plays on Climate Change topics.
